Undergraduate Thesis

Title: Stability Analysis of Riverbank Using the Limit Equilibrium Method (LEM) and the Finite Element Method (FEM).

Supervisor: Professor Dr. Mohammad Shariful Islam, Department of CIVIL Engineering, BUET.

Laboratory: Geotechnical Lab in BUET

- Performed and analyzed essential soil parameter tests (Standard Proctor, Grain Size Analysis, Direct Shear Test) according to ASTM standards.
- Modeled riverbank slope stability using LEM (SLIDE) and FEM (PLAXIS 2D).
- Investigated failure surfaces, safety factors, and deformation patterns under varying soil and hydraulic conditions.
- Conducted comparative analysis of LEM vs FEM behavior to identify critical slip mechanisms.
